INTRODUCTION

Some six months ago, the compiler of these pages being in possession of a number of family records, and feeling a desire that they should be preserved for the benefit of her children, began the task of arranging them in simple form, so that the pedigree in any family might be seen at a glance. The notes, however, becoming somewhat voluminous, it was deemed best to have them printed in order to make them available, although they are in no sense intended for the public, but merely for a personal family record.

No attempt has been made to give complete accounts of the various persons mentioned, as extensive genealogies of most of the families have already been prepared, or are now in preparation, but only such notes and records have been used as were at hand or readily obtainable. For this reason many prominent men are given but little notice, while others of less note are mentioned at length.

As everything in the work is taken from some history, genealogy, or record, the compiler has endeavored, as far as possible, to quote the exact language given-which will account for the variations in style.

As to the plan of the work-there is none, except that it is divided into four parts; Maltby, Bogert, Morehouse, and Brown-(these being the names of the grandparents of the children of the compiler, for whose convenience the record is

PART I.

MALTBY.

Arms: Argent, upon a bend gules three garbs or.

Crest: Upon a cap of dignity a garb or. Banded gules.

The New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Register (1857), vol. xi, p. 259, has the following:

“List of the Pedigrees contained in William Paver’s Consolidated Visitation of Yorkshire, being those taken in 1584, 1612, and 1665.

“The first set of figures shows the number of generations in that branch; the second set, the number of prior generations. Those thus marked t, are entered in the Vis. Of 1665. Those unmarked terminate, with few exceptions, in 1584 or 1612.”

Then follows a list of Yorkshire families in which is, on page 261: “Maltby—16.”

This is undoubtedly the Maltby family of Yorkshire to which William Maltby the emigrant ancestor belonged.

Savage, in his Genealogical Dictionary, mentions but two persons of the name of Maltby: John and William. That there was another Maltby, however, is proved by an old deed, recorded in Branford, Conn., April 16, 1673, and which is signed by a Robert Maltby as one of the three witnesses.

An old paper from which we shall quote later, speaks of a “Mr. Maltby* who has recently come to New Haven” on account of political troubles, but does not give the Christian name. As William and John were young men at the time of their emigration, it seems probable that it was their father to whom reference is made, and that he was the Robert Maltby of this deed. This appears all the more likely from the fact that his name is associated with those of older men—James Bishop, who also signed, being the father-in-law of William Maltby.

The following is a copy of the deed:

Know all whom it may concern that I, Thomas Blatchley of Branford, in New England, husbandman, for and in consideration of the sum of one hundred pounds of lawful money of New England to me in hand, at and before the ensembling and delivery proof by William Maltbye, resident at New Haven in New England aforesaid merchant, well and truly paid the receipt whereof, I the said Thomas Blachley do hereby acknowledge and myself to be therewith fully satisfied and thereof and of every part and parcel thereof, do clearly acquit and discharge the said William Maltbye, his executors and assigns, by these presents have granted alienated, bargained, sole, ensealed and confirmed and by these presents do grant, alienate, bargain, sell and enseal, confirm unto the said William Maltbye his heirs and assigns all that my dwelling house, barns, orchards, garden, homestead, with all other buildings and fencings there upon and all singular ways waters, commodities, privileges and appurtenances whatsoever, to the same, doth or hereafter may belong or in any wise appertain with all my other rights and title to several parcels of land and meadow, viz:--Two acres be it more or less adjacent to Mulliners Neck, and my division therein, my land and meadow at the harbors mouth commonly called Scotch Cap, six acres be it more or less at the great plain, my piece of meadow at the point, one piece of upland lying against it containing by affirmation three acres be it more or less, one piece of upland lying on the other side of the river over against Mr. Wilford, his home lot containing by affirmation, three acres be it more or less. One acre of upland and one piece of meadow in the Indian Neck, one little piece of meadow in the corner of Nortons meadow, one piece of meadow in the mill quarter, with all the right of commonage and other divided and undivided lands that doth or hereafter may belong unto the said accommodations being situated and laying within the township and bounds of the town of Branford in New England aforesaid, to have and to hold the aforesaid house, barns, lands and all and singular other the premises with the appurtenances unto the said William Maltbye, his heirs, executors and assigns forever to the only proper use and behoof of the said William Maltbye his heirs, executors and assigns forever, and I the said Thomas Blachley for myself, my heirs and executors and assigns, and every of them do covenant, grant and agree to and with the said William Maltbye his heirs, executors and assigns by these presents in manner following: that is to say, that the said William Maltbye his heirs and assigns shall or lawfully may from this time to time and at all times hereafter peaceable and quietly have, hold, occupy and posses and enjoy the aforesaid house, barns, lands and all and singular other, the premises with the appurtenances without any the lawsuit trouble coercion-ejection, interruption, denial claim or demand whatsoever of or by me the said Thomas Blachley my heirs, executors or assigns or any of them; freed and discharged or by me the said Thomas Blachley my heirs, executors and administrators well and sufficiently saved and kept harmless and indemnified of from and from all, and all manner of former and other bargains, sales and gifts, grants, mortgages, jointures, dowries, title of dower, wills, entails, titles, trouble charges and encumbrances whatsoever have made, committed, done or suffered by me the said Thomas Blachley, my heirs, executors and assigns of any of them, or any other person or persons lawfully claiming or to claim from by or under me, them, or any of them or be or through mine, their or them or any of their act, means and faults, privilege-consent or procurement.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this sixteenth day of April Anno Domini one thousand six hundred and seventy-tree. 1673.

Signed, sealed and delivered in the presence of

James Bishop, Assistant. \

Edward Barker, |--

Robert Maltbye, / \

Thomas Blachley,

At a town meeting in the month of April 1673, Susanna, the wife of Thomas Blachley di freely give her consent to the above written act and deed of sale.

Recorded by me Eleazer Stent, Recorder.

* The title Hon. Was entirely unknown in our records until 1685, and subsequently for many years was applied only to the Governor, and seldom even to him. The next title was that of Esq. and meant the same as in England temp. Elizabeth and James I.

Mr. Thomas Wells was magistrate for 17 years, dep. Gov. 1 year, and was chosen Gov. the 2d time, before he was dignified with Esq. The next title was Gentleman, but seems to have been soon discarded in Conn. The prefix Master (Mr.) belonged to all gentlemen including those designated by the higher marks of rank. Master corresponds very nearly to the English word gentleman. In Conn. It embraced clergymen and planters of good family and estate who were members of the Gen. Court, those bred at an university and those of sufficient education to manage the general affairs of the colony, civil or ecclesiastical, and who had been sufficiently well born. Comparatively few of the representatives of the town, even though they might be returned year after year, were honored with the title. To be called Mr. or to have one's name recorded by the Secretary with that prefix 200 years ago was a more certain index of the rank of the individual as respects birth, education, and good moral character than any one of the high sounding titles with which many men of no merit what ever, in our day of swift locomotion are content to cajole others in order that they may be enriched in their turn with the same spurious currency. "It may be observed by reference to our colonial records that there were scores of men of good family and in honorable stations, who still did not possess all the requisite qualities of Master. It was seldom that young men of whatever rank were called Masters. Sir was sometimes applied to young gentlemen undergraduates at a college.....Mrs. Was applied to the wives of Masters and also to unmarried females of the higher class.

Military titles were considered of a very high order. Previous to 1654 the highest military officer in the colony was Captain."-Hollister's Hist. of Conn.

Palfrey in Hist. of N. Eng. Says: There was great punctiliousness in the application of both official and conventional titles. Only a small number of persons of the best condition (always including ministers and their wives) had Mr. and Mrs. Prefixed to their names.....Wm. Bradford, though at the head of the Bridgewater, Mass., proprietors, a son of the Gov. and himself often Lieut. Gov., was not entitled to "Mr."

(Quoted from the "Tuttle Family."-G.F.Tuttle.)

An old paper which is in the possession of the family states that "The family of Maltby originated in Sasonry, and takes its name from the village of Maltby in Yorkshire, Eng., which has been in the possession of the family for more than eight hundred years." It says further, that "The first notice taken of the name in New England is in 1615-16* when a Mr Maltby from the County of York in England emigrated to Connecticut." The paper also states that Hutchinson in his MS. Memoriala mention him, and that, in the Historical Collections there is a letter concerning him written by John Punderson to the Rev. W. Hutchenson, dated Jan. 16 which speaks of him as "Mr. Maltby who has just come over from England" on account of political troubles, and says, "He now seems sorry for the aid he gave to the bad cause, and praises the clemency of the King in stopping his trial for high treason and permitting him to emigrate to America."

William Maltby, who with his brother John emigrated to America about 1667, is said to have been from Yorkshire and of the rank of "gentleman." He is referred to in the Biog. And Annals of Yale Col. (Dexter) as Captain William Maltby, and it states that his wife was Abigail, daughter of Dep. Gov. James Bishop. Savage mentions him as "cornet of New Haven troop." He was a man of much prominence in Branford, being magistrate, commissioner, representative or deputy, Justice of the Quorum, and usually called Judge Maltby. In some of the colonial records he is called "Esq. Judge Wm Maltbie."

In the Collections of the Mass. Hist. Soc., vol. 7, 4th series, is a letter from William Lecte to John Winthrop, Jr., dated "New Haven, April 13, 1671," which contains this clause.

"Here is no news with us, but of Mr. Malbye's arrival safe at Nevis; that ship he went in being there cast away by hurricane after the goodes were landed, and he since gone for England."

Baldwin in his Branford Annals (N.H. Hist. Soc. Papers, vol. iii, p. 265), says:

"Among the men who came to Branford soon after, or at the time of the Newark exodus, were Eleazer Mtent, William Rosewell, William Maltbie, and Samuel Pond, They became especially prominent."

* Date of course incorrect, perhaps "1665-6",

1 About 1666

“The Wilfords, Maultbies, Barkers and Johnsons, that are leading names in Branford at this time, were of the merchant class and apparently wealthy. They became large landholders.”

“The society at Branford at this period must have been most select, comprising the governor and others named,” etc.

It has been thought by some that Abigail Bishop may have been the second wife of William Maltby. The list of members embodied in the church Covenant of Branford, March 7, 1687-8, begins in this way: “Samuel Russell (the minister), William Maltby,” etc., “and women, Elizabeth Barker, Hannah Maltby,” etc. This Hannah Maltby may have been the first wife of William, as their names are mentioned together as church members until 1687 (?), or she may have been the wife of Robert and the mother of William.

The tombstone of William Maltby and that of his wife Abigail, still stand in the burial ground at Branford, Conn. They are inscribed thus:

“He lies William Maltby Esq., who died Sep. y^e 1st 1710, aged 65 yrs.”

“Here lies Abigail Maltby, wife of William Maltby Esq., who died Oct, y^e 24th 1710, aged 51 yrs.”

The following is the will of William Maltby:

I, William Maltby of Branford, Esq being this 28th day of August Anno Dom 1710 in y^e ninth year of her majts reign sick and weak in body but through the mercy of God of composed mind and sound memory do make and ordain this my last will and testament in manner and forme following-

GENEALOGY OF THE MALTBY FAMILY

AS COMPILED BY

DEACON CHARLES FOOTE,*

Of Northford, Conn.

One line of descent from William Maltby of Branford, Conn., who with his brother John were emigrants from England.

John married Mary Bryan, daughter of Richard of Milford.

John (see appendix 1, p. 32), lost at sea (1676), is supposed to have left no family.

John's widow, Mrs. Mary Bryan Maltby, married a Mr. Howell of Long Island, so says Jonathan Maltby of Barnesville.

WILLIAM MALTBY (b. -----; m. -----; d. Sept. 1, 1710), the common ancestor of all the Maltbys in this region; was a man of note in Branford, being magistrate and repeatedly representative at the General Court; m. Abigail (d. Oct. 24, 1710), dau. Of ----.

APPENDIX.

1, (P. 13).

Concerning John Maltby, brother of William¹ Maltby, the following is taken from the following is taken from the Dwight Strong Genealogy, p. 354. :Rev. Joseph Strong (son of Capt. Joseph Strong of Coventry, Ct.), and Elizabeth (daughter of Preserved and Tabitha (Lee) Strong, Coventry, Ct.), b. Mch. 19, 1728-9; m. June 7, 1753, Jane Gelston of Southampton, L.I., b. Apl. 13, 1729 (d. of Judge Hugh Gelston of Southampton, L. I., the Settler, and Mary Maltby his wife) His wife Mary Maltby was the daughter of John Maltby, Jr. (b. in New Haven, Ct., June 1, 1673), and Susannah Clark, his wife. They had but two children, Mary and Sarah, b. 1705, who died Sept. 8, 1723. John Maltby, Sr., father of John Maltby, Jr., came with his brother William, both of the rank of "gentleman," from Yorkshire, Eng., to New Haven, about 1670.

"They engaged in commercial pursuits. John Maltby married about 1671, Mary Bryan, of Milford, Ct., daughter of Richard Bryan and granddarghter of Hon. Alexander Bryan, who came ftom Ashton Clinton Bucks, Eng. She was born in Milford, 1654.

"Their children were twins, John and Mary Maltby, born at New Haven, June 1, 1673. John Maltby, Sr., was lost at sea in 1677 (it is believed) and his widow m. about 1680 Rev. Joseph Taylor of Southampton, L. I., who d. Apl. 4, 1682, aged 31.

"She married 3d, Jan. 30, 1690, John Howell, Jr., of Southampton, L. I., who d. Mch. 8, 1692, aged 44, and she was then left for the third time a widow, when but 38 y'rs old. John Maltby, Jr., went with her to Southampton at the time of her second marriage. He died June 27, 1706, aged 33.

"Mary Maltby, twin with him, m. Dec. 5, 1689, Major Joseph Fordham, son of Rev. Robert Fordham of Southampton.

They had six children: Mary, Mch. 11, 1691; Joseph, Sept. 19, 1693; Phebe, July 22, 1696; Alexander, Oct. 3, 1700; John, Oct. 27, 1703; Hannah, July 19, 1705.

“Mrs. Mary (Maltby) Gelston d. July 23, 1737, and Judge Gelston m. 2d, Mary Pelletreau and had three children. By first wife, Mary Maltby, he had ten children. Mary, Jan. 19, 1718, d. unm.; Susannah, Mch. 28, 1721, m. Col. Josiah Smith of Moriches, L. I.; Dea. Maltby Gelston of Bridgehampton, L. I., Mch. 20, 1723, d. Sept. 22d, 1783; Sarah, Mch. 10, 1725; m. Dec. 29, 1748, Elias Pelletreau of Southampton; Samuel Gelston, M.D., of Nantucket, Mass., Mch. 24, 1727; Jane, April 13, 1729, m. Rev. Joseph Strong of Williamsburgh, Mass., she d. Sept. 21, 1811; Hugh, July 19, 1730, d. May 19, 1734; John, July 17, 1732, d. Feb. 26, 1734; Thomas, May 15, 1734; d. April 1, 1752; Hugh 2d, b. Sept. 13, 1735, m. Nov. 1763, Phebe Howell (d. of David Howell) who d. Sept. 18, 1772, and he m. 2d, Mary Foster (d. of Hackaliah Foster) d. April, 1803. He was a farmer at Southampton, L. I., d. at Sharon, Ct., Dec. 1, 1815, aged 80. He had but one child, Rev. Maltby Gelston, b. July 17, 1776, settled for 45 years in the ministry at Sherman, Ct., d. Dec. 15, 1856. He m. July 17, 1798, Jane Mills Bordwell, d. of Rev. Joel Bordwell, of Kent, Ct. They had seven children, and two of them were clergymen: Rev. Maltby Gelston, b. April 30, 1805, resided Ann Arbor, Mich.; and Rev. Mills Bordwell Gelston, b. Aug. 27, 1817, settled in Naples, N. Y.”

2, (p. 13).

This is probably a mistake, as the Davenport genealogy—A.B. Davenport—states that Rev. John Maltby, and his two sisters, were the children of Captain William Maltby of New Haven, and Sarah Davenport, daughter of Rev. John Davenport of Stamford, Conn.

As Rev. John Davenport married for his second wife Elizabeth (Morris) Maltby (who was undoubtedly the widow of William² Maltby), it seems very probable that the son (William³ Maltby) of Elizabeth (Maltby) Davenport, and the daughter (Sarah) of Rev. John Davenport and his first wife, Martha (Gold) (Selleck), should have married.

The following is an extract from the Davenport genealogy, p. 203:

“Sarah Davenport, born July, 1702, was married first to Captain William Maltby* of New Haven, by whom she had three children—a son and two daughters. The son, Rev. John Maltby, graduated at Yale College in 1747, and for a number of years was the much loved pastor of a church in Bermuda, West Indies. He afterwards removed to Charleston, S. C., till, from impaired health, he removed to Hanover, N. H., where he died in 1771. His monument is by the side of that of his step-father, Dr. Wheelock.

“One of the daughters died in youth, an example of patience and piety, and the other, Elizabeth, was married May 15, 1754, to Dr. Thaddeus Betts, a highly respected physician of Norwalk, Conn., who was the father of Judge William Maltby Betts, and the grandfather of Hon. Thaddeus Betts, Lieut. Gov. Of Conn., who represented his native State in the Senate of the United States, and who died at Washington in 1840, aged 52 years.

“After the death of Capt. Maltby his widow married, in 1735, the Rev. Eleazer Wheelock of Lebanon, Conn.”

Dr. Wheelock was the founder of Dartmouth College, of which he was the first president.

1775. "IN TIME OF THE REVOLUTION." COPY.

Northford was a village of true patriots, only three Tories. The Whigs were ardent and forward in the service of their country and persevered to obtain their Liberties and Independence. They fell and bled in the good cause. Some of the first young men, the flower of Northford, fell in the contest, much lamented. May 1775, Capt. William Douglas commanded a warlike band.

*The name Maltby was formerly written in various ways. Thus we find William Maltby1 recorded on page 6, Maltbye; page 8, Maltbie; Malbye; Maltby; page 9, Maultbie, etc. His descendants at this time usually write the name either Maltby or Maltbie. As this line, from Jonathan2 son of William1, usually use the latter form, for the sake of uniformity we have given Maltbie in this record.

Sergeant Levi Munson, Corporals Josiah Fowler, Jun., and Benjamin Henshaw, privates Nathaniel Bunnel, Caleb Cooke, John Elwell, Samuel Cook, Joseph Hawkins, Abner Tharp (Thorp?) from Northford. He marched to New York thence to the capture of St. John's, Canada. The capture of that place occasioned a thrill of joy. A brother of Gen. Ethan Allen brought the good news to New Haven.

Col. Fitch ordered out the cannon; thirteen thunders, one for each state echoed to the shouts of the warm hearted freemen. The gallant Allen, soldier like, leaped on to a cannon at the last fire, swung his hat and cried "God save the Continental Congress." "Three Cheers." O, it was done to the life. It was my first term in Yale College. January 17, 1776 another detachment under Major Douglas of three months' men was ordered to New York. Ensign Titus Monson (died on Long Island March, 1776) Joseph Bunel, Solomon Linly, and my brother Thaddeus Maltby were a part. Again in May, 1776, Lieut. Ambrose Baldwin, Sergeant Benjamin Norton, Corporal Thaddeus Maltby and Dan Bartholomew; Peter Farnum, Factor Munroe and Dick Negro, seven men from that little village marched to the Northern army. Four of these free born sons fell victims in the cause of their country. Thaddeus Maltby, Dan Bartholomew, Factor Monroe and Dick Negro and two of the militia to New York, Edwin Foot and Dan Page. Col. Douglas commands the regiment of leather caps (cap of his invention). It was said to be the first regiment of the Connecticut troops. In August the militia were ordered to New York and Col. Douglas acts as General of Brigade. After his decease May 1777, the Reg. was commanded by Col. Meigs during the war. The regiment was always a terror to the enemy. Sergeant Leyi Munson and Ser. Benjamin Norton early entered the army and retired 1783. Lieut. Sergeant Munson was captured with Gen. Allen and was in prison with him two years in England. On his exchange he was told "You have seen enough you will never fight us again." "I will fight you the first opportunity," was his reply. He was appointed Lieutenant and served during the war. Capt. Isaac Foote was a warm and active officer; commanded a detachment of the troop to New York 1776. Jonathan Maltby and Solomon Talmage of the same troop with others were dispatched under Capt. Treat of Milford to the capture of Burgoyne. Her sons were in many battles. Mr. Josiah Fowler and others were with Major Meigs in the expedition to Long Island when ninety of the enemy were captured.

They were guarded one night in the Episcopal Church in Northford on their way to Hartford. Mr. Elihu Fowler was in the battle at White Plains (was a marksman), said he had many fair shots at the enemy as he ever had at a squirrel. Jonathan Fitch served during, and Peter Lyon were at the taking of Cornwallis, and in many other perils of the Revolution.

The whole mass were engaged in emergencies and Northford left destitute of male inhabitants. When the enemy came to New Haven some of the dear patriot ladies for fear fled to the mountains with bed and bedding, assisted by a faithful colored man. Capt. Jonathan Munson, Capt. Solomon Talmage, Mr. Elihu Foot, Squire John Potter and Mr. James Linly were pensioners. The war of the Revolution was a time that tried men's souls and women's too, sometimes. Vile characters would tell frightful stories that the enemy were coming, to frighten the women and amuse themselves. Blessed the God of love and peace; we live in the time of tranquility and in the Land of Freedom.

Northford has furnished a large proportion of Teachers of Church Music. Rev. Lemuel Tyler of Preston, Conn., taught in Fairfield and in Fishkill, N. Y. Dr. Augustus Williams of Canandaigua, N. Y., taught in Newburyport, Mass. Gen. Isaac Maltby and Col. Stephen Maltby were eminent teachers, were much employed at home and abroad. Mr. Solomon Fowler and Mr. Levi Fowler were teachers. Mr. L. Fowler taught in Pennsylvania and many years in Northford. There has ever been a little band of vocal and instrumental music.

For more than sixty years church music has been cultivated. First by Rev. Andrew Law. Since, those taught by him and their descendants. There has been a larger proportion of district and high school teachers. Men and women at home and abroad have been much employed. Hence probably the remark "The village exhibits a scholastic appearance."

New Haven, Oct. 28, 1847. Here it is worthy of remark that all the Pensioners (with one exception) are laid in the dust, and every one who taught church music, and of the thirty-one educated at Yale College twenty-two deceased. Of my class Hon. Elizur Goodrich and myself are all that I know of living.

"Soon will the guardian angel cheer

My exit from this world of care."

The New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Register (1865), Vol. 19, p.338, has an article headed: "Reminiscences connected with the War of 1812." It commences as follows:

"In the summer of 1814 many portions of the militia of Mass. Were called into actual service for the defence of the seaboard, especially in the near Boston." (Then mentions regiments and officers.)

"Another brigade of the volunteer militia was organized and placed under the command of Brigadier General Isaac Maltby, of Hatfield." * * * (page 339.) "The regiment went into camp at Cambridgeport for a few days, but was soon removed to a place called Commercial Point, Dorchester, where were better accommodations.

"At Commercial Point, the regiment was drilled daily in the manual exercise, marching, wheeling, etc. It was reviewed twice at a place called Cedar Point, and on "Boston Common by Governor Strong, Adjutant-General Brooks, Generals Cobb, Mattoon, Whiton, Maltby, Blair and others, Genl. Cobb remarking, 'That regiment knows enough and ought to go home and let the ignorant come and learn.'" Page 341 says: "General Maltby was a representative in the legislature. He removed to Waterloo, N. Y., where he died in 1819. He published 'Elements of War,' 12mo, 1812, 'A Treatise on Courts Martial and Military Law,' 1813."

The New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Register, 1878, Vol. 32, p. 235, in a short account of the Murray family says:

"Seth Murray, 4th son of William, Sen., served in the Reb. Army; was commissioned as Lieut. Col. In 1780, and subsequently as Brig. General. He married, at Hatfield, Elizabeth White. They had one child, Lucinda, who married Isaac Maltby (Yale College 1786), Brigadier General Mass. Militia, 1814, and author of several military works. Descendants known."

Arms: Argent, upon a bend gules three garbs or.

Crest: Upon a cap of dignity a garb or. banded gules.

1. WILLIAM¹ MALTBY, the emigrant ancestor, has been sufficiently described in that part of this work pertaining especially to the Maltby family.

He was an important man in his time, and repeatedly representative or deputy to the General Court; magistrate; commissioner; town clerk for many years; Justice of the Quorum; Captain; and usually called Judge Maltby, although sometimes spoken of as Captain Maltby. Savage says, that he was Cornet of the New Haven troop. He was a man of large means. For anything further concerning him see the notes in regard to him in the first part of this book. His wife was Abigail, daughter of Dep. Gov. James Bishop. She may have been a second wife; if so, his first wife was probably Hannah ----. William Maltby died 1710, aged 65.

2. DANIEL² MALTBY, son of William¹, born May 19, 1679, is said to have been a prominent man, but the writer has not been able to discover particulars. He married, Oct. 27, 1702, Esther, daughter of John and Mary (Lathrop) Moss; died Dec. 26, 1731.

3. DEA. BENJAMIN³ MALTBY, son of Daniel², born June 20, 1716-17, removed to Northford, and was held in high esteem. He was twice married, 1st, to Sarah Harrington; 2d, 1753, to Elizabeth, daughter of Josiah and Hannah (Baldwin) Fowler. His children were all by his second wife.

For accounts of his sons, Corporal Thaddeus⁴ (Rev. War); Rev. Jonathan⁴; General Isaac⁴ and Col. Stephen⁴, see appendix 5, 6, pp. 37, 38, 39,40,41. Dea. Benjamin Maltby died July 9, 1796.

4. COL. STEPHEN⁴ MALTBY, son of Benjamin³ and Elizabeth (Fowler) Maltby, born July, 1769, married Abigail Williams, daughter of Rev. Warham Williams (grandson of the "Redeemed Captive"), which marriage brought many distinguished lines of ancestry into this branch of the family.

With much military spirit, it was his misfortune to have been too young to take part in the Revolutionary War, and to die at the beginning of the War of 1812, where his brother, Gen. Isaac, distinguished himself. Col. Stephen died Jan. 22, 1812.

5. AUGUSTUS⁵ MALTBY, son of Col. Stephen⁴ and Abigail (Williams) Maltby, born 1789, married Nancy, daughter of Robert and Hannah (White) Townshend. He was a man of education and at one time kept a school. He died while quite a young man, soon after the birth of his third son, George⁵ Williams Maltby. His wife survived him, and died in Dundee, New York, at the home of one of her sons. Augustus Maltby died Dec. 21, 1821.

6. GEORGE⁶ WILLIAMS MALTBY, son of Augustus⁵ and Nancy (Townshend) Maltby, born Sept. 11, 1820, married Sarah A. Bogert, daughter of John and Hester (Thibaut) Bogert, May 14, 1846. He was for a number of years in partnership with James M. Townshend—the firm name being “Townshend & Maltby; in recent years, however, he has been associated with his eldest son, Theodore A. Maltby, under the firm name of Maltby & Son. He was for many years a local preacher of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was frequently called upon to fill the various pulpits throughout New Haven county, when the churches chanced to be without their regular supply.

7. GEORGE⁷ ELLSWORTH MALTBY, born Feb. 9, 1852, son of George⁶ Williams and Sarah (Bogert) Maltby, married May 6, 1872, Georgia Lord, daughter of Louis Peck and Harriet (Brown) Morehouse. At the age of 17 he entered the employ of the old established coal firm of H. W.
